Statement / principles

The policy outlines the commitment of the staff and Governors to promote equality. This involves tackling the barriers which could lead to unequal outcomes for identified groups and individuals of students, staff, parents/carers, governors and visitors in school, ensuring that there is equality of access and celebrating and valuing the legacy and strengths within the school.

We believe that equality at our school should filter through all aspects of school life and is the responsibility of every member of the school and wider community. Every member of the school community should feel safe, secure, valued and of equal worth. At St Helens Primary, equality is a key principle for treating people with dignity and respect irrespective of their age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage or civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion/belief, sex, sexual orientation as recognised protected characteristics under the Equality Act 2010. This policy has been drawn up as a result of discussion between different stakeholders.

Monitoring and review

The responsibility for co-ordinating the monitoring and evaluation of this policy is the headteacher, the governing body with support and guidance from the lead officer for equality and diversity, they are responsible for:

- Providing updates on equalities legislation and the school's responsibilities in this regard;
- Working closely with the lead governor responsible for equality and diversity
- Supporting positively the evaluation of activities that monitor the impact and success of the policy on all groups, including Special Educational Needs (SEN), Children in Care, Minority Ethnic including traveller and English as an Additional Language (EAL) students and Free School Meals, in the following recommended areas:
 - Pupils' progress and attainment
 - Teaching and learning
 - Behaviour discipline and exclusions
 - Attendance
 - Admissions
 - All forms of bullying including incidents of prejudice related bullying
 - Parental involvement
 - Participation in extra-curricular and extended school activities
 - Staff recruitment and retention
 - Visits and visitors

Equality Act 2010 update:

School Uniform Policy: There are recognised benefits in having a school uniform, as a uniform can: instil pride; support positive behaviour and discipline; contribute towards the ethos of a school; help to ensure pupils of all races and backgrounds feel welcome; protect children from social pressures to dress in a particular way; nurture cohesion; and promote good relations between different group of pupils.

The law: Under the provisions of the Equality Act 2010 schools must not discriminate on grounds of age, sex, gender reassignment, transgender, race, disability, pregnancy and maternity, religion or belief or sexual orientation. The leading cases challenging uniform policies have tended to focus on racial or religious matters.

Unlawful discrimination can be direct, where the school treats a pupil differently from other pupils on the prohibited grounds, or indirect, where all pupils are treated equally but the effect of that treatment is different on, for example, different racial or religious groups.

What does this mean for our school?

In light of the case law in this area and the obligations under the Equality Act 2010, we will consider the following points:

- whether an exception to the school uniform policy applies in specific cases, such as to accommodate a pupil's disability or injury;
- to take care to ensure that the uniform policy does not discourage parents from certain social groups from applying for a place at the school for their child. For example, to avoid disadvantage to any racial groups. Uniform policies should take into account specific differences in dress, hairstyle and even the significance of certain items of jewellery for pupils from different racial backgrounds;
- in some circumstances it may be appropriate to allow an exception to the policy to be made for a particular pupil. If an exception cannot be made, and would put a pupil at a disadvantage, consider whether the reasons for not making an exception are a proportionate means of achieving a legitimate aim. In other words, what will be the impact on the established aims of the school's uniform policy by allowing an exception; and
- schools are more likely to be able to show that their policies are fair and non-discriminatory when they have been widely consulted on, for example, with staff, pupils, parents and governors.

It remains the case that the school is free to adopt a uniform policy and can require their pupils to adhere to them. However, case law indicates that we must consider making exceptions or changing their uniform policies where appropriate, not only for those of certain religious beliefs, but also for pupils who contend that a cultural or family practice means that they cannot conform and where other special circumstances apply which could be linked to one of the prohibited grounds.

Reasonable Adjustment: As a school we are required to take reasonable steps to provide an auxiliary aid, where a disabled person would, but for the provision of that auxiliary aid be put at a substantial disadvantage compared with a non-disabled person. This is the responsibility of the school and the governing body.

For further information on accessibility please refer to each SEND Policy and SEND Offer available at our school (information is available on the school website).

Race

Following government consultation inclusion of caste has now been integrated within the race protected characteristic. Across the school we will ensure that we make every effort to ensure that we promote inclusion at all levels of teaching and learning and employment. We will continue to eliminate discrimination, harassment and victimisation, promote equality of opportunity and foster good relations within the school and wider communities of St Helens.

Policy commitments

We aim to provide all our pupils with the opportunity to succeed, and to reach the highest level of personal achievement. To achieve this we will ensure:

- Curriculum planning reflects a commitment to equality, including augmentative provision;

Promoting equality: Achievement

There is a consistently high expectation of all pupils and staff regardless of age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage or civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion/belief, sex, sexual orientation ethnicity or social background. To secure the best possible outcomes we recognise that:

- It is important to identify the particular needs of individuals and groups within the school and to use targeted interventions to narrow gaps in achievement;
- It is important to place a high priority on the provisions for special educational needs and disability;
- A range of teaching methods to be used throughout the school to ensure that effective learning takes place at all stages for all pupils and that to promote pupil engagement, pupils are encouraged to be actively involved in their own learning.

Promoting equality: Ethos and culture

- We are aware that those involved in leadership of the school community are instrumental in demonstrating mutual respect between all members of the school community;
- There should be a feeling of openness and tolerance which welcomes everyone to the school;
- The displays around the school are of a high quality and reflect diversity across all aspects of equality
- Reasonable adjustments will be made (within the limitations of resources available or provided in an alternative way) to ensure access for pupils and visitors (including parents) with disabilities;
- Provision is made to provide for the cultural, social, moral and spiritual needs of all pupils through the planning of assemblies, classroom based and off site activities;
- Pupils are given an effective voice, for example through the School Council and through pupil perception surveys which regularly seek their views, and where we can we take action;
- Positive role models are used throughout the school to ensure that different groups of pupils can see themselves reflected in the school community.

Promoting equality: Staff recruitment and professional development

- Access to opportunities for professional development is monitored on equality grounds;
- All supply staff and contractors are made aware of equalities policy and practice;
- Employment policy and procedures are reviewed regularly to check conformity with legislation and impact.

- The school has a clear, agreed procedure for dealing with prejudice related bullying incidents and has a nominated member of staff responsible for recording, reporting and monitoring incidents;
- The school reports to Governors and the local authority on an annual basis the number of diversity related incidents recorded in the school.

Promoting equality: Partnerships with parents/carers and the wider community

This school aims to work in partnership with parents/carers. We:

- Take action to ensure parents/carers from all backgrounds are encouraged to participate in all aspects of school life;
- Ensure that there are good channels of communication to ensure parents views are captured and acted upon;
- Encourage members of the local community to join in school activities and celebrations;
